Q: How to calculate the gravitational force of a planet? I am trying to calculate the gravitational force of a planet (Earth) to illustrate the force of gravity has increased over a period of time, but I am still having a hard time because I do not understand the concept of gravitational force. For example, lets say earth gained mass by accretion from space dust, could I use this equation:  $F = GmM/(r^2)$  to calculate the gravitational force of earth on a another planet at a distance  $r$ ? A: Gravity is a vectorial equation, so the line of action is a vector to calculate the force. The line of action of earth's gravity at the surface of the moon is a vector which is pointing towards the center of the moon. The vector equation in those cases looks like this:  $F = G \frac{Mm}{R^2} \vec{R}$  Where  $\vec{R}$  is the vector from the center of the moon towards the center of earth.

Q: preg_replace не могу вывести из экшна строку и получить стили вот такой `if($sort == 'latest_vip'){ $s = preg_replace('%(.*)%si', '', ".$vip_name.");", $s); }` $vip_name это число тип
